RV Cooking Show Takes You There and Feeds You Well

Livingston, TX (September 17, 2007) - A full-time RVer with a passion for food, fun and RVing, Evanne Schmarder, owner of Roadabode Productions, proudly introduces the RV Cooking Show - www.RVCookingShow.com. Part travelogue, part cooking show, each less-than-10-minute episode - filmed in her RV kitchen - shares travel tips, ideas and recommendations on popular RVing locales and products then walks viewers through the preparation of a delicious destination-related dish. Past episodes include a tour of Albuquerque's 505 Chili Factory and Huevos Rancheros, Mojitos and the Fabulous Florida Keys and a salmon dinner in conjunction with the spectacular Olympic National Park.

Viewers have the option of watching the RV Cooking Show on YouTube - www.youtube.com/results?search_query=RVCookingShow, various RV-related websites such as RVTravel.com and RVUniversity.com or on the RV Cooking Show website. So as not to miss a single savory episode, viewers may subscribe to the show on YouTube or at www.RVCookingShow.com.

"One of my big dreams when 'hitting the road' was to travel, taste and re-create regional food specialties. What a fabulous ride it's been so far - and I want to share it with others. Viewer response to this virtual cooking class on wheels has been tremendous," remarked Ms. Schmarder.

About the RV Cooking Show

A virtual cooking class on wheels with an RV travel component, The RV Cooking Show takes viewers on adventures to some of the most sought-after or interesting but little-known RV locales in the country and then creates a healthy, easy, delicious destination-related dish in host Evanne Schmarder's RV kitchen. An RV industry insider, full-time RVer Ms. Schmarder connects with viewers in part by "living the RV dream". She is a professional speaker, writer, foodie and unabashed explorer. She may be contacted at Evanne@RVCookingShow.com or 702-460-9863.
